Note: Detailed figures may not add to totals because of independent rounding or independent dropping of fractions of thousands (rather than rounding) in computer operations.

Standard notes: (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (Z) Under $50 thousand.

<sup>2</sup>10 to 30 percent of the quantity was estimated.

<sup>4</sup>30 to 50 percent of the quantity was estimated.

<sup>13</sup>For 1963, included with "Nylon filament yarns" to avoid disclosing operations of individual companies.

Consequently, these data are not comparable with the "Cost of Materials" figures shown in the other tables of this report, which represent cost of all materials consumed by establishments classified in the specified industries.

<sup>1</sup>Smelting and refining establishments were instructed to include in their reports the quantity and cost of purchased materials which they processed or furnished to others for toll processing, but to exclude materials processed on a toll basis for others. Accordingly the data shown in this table exclude considerable quantities of materials consumed by establishments in this industry in the production of the products shown in table 3.

<sup>2</sup>The cost of materials for this industry includes extensive duplication. This duplication arises because the products of some establishments are used as materials by other establishments in the same industry.

<sup>3</sup>Includes leaching ores received in crude form from mines by leaching plants operated in conjunction with smelting and refining operations. Such ores represent about half the total quantity of ores, concentrates and precipitates consumed but about 15 percent of the value of these materials.

<sup>4</sup>Excludes materials consumed by establishments producing copper by leaching or from Lake Superior ores as no distinct blister stage exists in the production at these establishments.

<sup>5</sup>Included with material code 970099, "All other materials and components, parts, containers, and supplies consumed," to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies.

<sup>6</sup>This item represents the total cost of materials for establishments that did not report detailed materials data. For 1967, this includes estimates for companies that were not mailed report forms.

Note: For 1963, materials consumed data for industries 3351, Copper rolling and drawing, and 3357, Nonferrous wire drawing, etc., were published separately by subindustry. For 1967, such data were not separately tabulated. Subindustry data for 1963 appear in Volume II, 1963 Census of Manufactures, in Table 7A.

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. <sup>2</sup>From 10 to 30 percent of this figure was estimated.

<sup>3</sup>Data exclude tonnages of copper materials processed on a toll basis. Most of the material involved in toll processing is owned by establishments classified in other industries, principally industry 3357, Nonferrous Wire drawing, etc. As table 6A shows unalloyed copper rod, bar, and shapes (product code 3351211) is, by far, the most important mill product produced on a toll basis.

<sup>4</sup>Included with material code 970099, "all other materials and components, parts, containers, and supplies, consumed." To avoid disclosing operations of individual companies.

Note: Detailed figures may not add to totals because of independent rounding or independent dropping of fractions of thousands (rather than rounding) in computer operations.

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. <sup>6</sup>From 10 to 30 percent of this figure was estimated.

<sup>1</sup>Data on the tonnage of tinplate, terneplate, blackplate and aluminum consumed in the production of cans constructed wholly of metal are published in Current Industrial Reports Series M34D, Metal Cans. The consumption total reported in the census of manufactures also includes such metal consumed in the production of secondary products.

<sup>3</sup>Material code 331013, carbon steelplate is combined with material code 331019, all other carbon steel mill shapes and forms.

<sup>5</sup>These figures are understated by $2 million or less because of apparent undercoverage of carbon steel pipe and tube.

<sup>6</sup>Included with material code 970099, All other materials and components, etc.

<sup>8</sup>In 1967, 6.2 thousand short tons of iron and steel forgings were produced and consumed in the same establishment. The comparable figure for 1963 is 3.8 thousand short tons.

<sup>9</sup>These figures are understated by $5 million or less because of apparent undercoverage of carbon steel pipe and tube.

<sup>10</sup>In addition there were 3.5 and 2.7 thousand short tons of iron castings produced and consumed in the same establishment for 1967 and 1963 respectively. In 1963, 2.2 million pounds of aluminum castings were produced and consumed. Data on aluminum, steel, and copper castings produced and consumed for 1967 are not available. Also, no data are available for quantities of steel and copper castings produced and consumed in the same establishment in 1963.

<sup>1</sup>In 1967 there were, in addition 5.5 thousand short tons of steel castings produced and consumed in the same establishment. The comparable figure for 1963 was 1.9 thousand.

<sup>2</sup>This item represents the total cost of materials for establishments that did not report detailed materials data. For 1967 this includes estimates for companies that were not mailed report forms.

<sup>4</sup>In 1967, there were in addition 3.2 thousand short tons of steel castings produced and consumed in the same establishments. Data for 1963 are not available.

<sup>5</sup>Data for these materials have been revised to include the consumption of materials by automotive stampings plants operated by automobile producing companies. Most of these plants had previously been classified in the automotive industry.

<sup>6</sup>These figures are understated by $5 million or less because of apparent undercoverage of carbon steel pipe and tube.

<sup>7</sup>Included with material code 970099 "All other materials and components, etc."

<sup>8</sup>No data are available for the quantities of castings produced and consumed in the same establishment.

<sup>9</sup>Data are included with material code 970099 "All other materials and components, etc., to avoid disclosing the operations of individual companies.

Note: Detailed figures may not add to totals because of independent rounding or independent dropping of fractions of thousands (rather than rounding) in computer operations.

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies.

<sup>3</sup>No data are available on the quantities of castings or forgings produced and consumed in the same establishment.

<sup>4</sup>This item represents the total cost of materials for establishments that did not report detailed materials data. For 1967 this includes estimates for companies that were not mailed report forms.

<sup>5</sup>The figures for castings produced and consumed in the same establishment are: iron castings, 229.7 thousand short tons in 1967 and 258.4 thousand short tons in 1963; steel castings, 9.9 thousand short tons in 1967 and 6.0 thousand short tons in 1963; copper and copper-base alloy castings, 119.6 million pounds in 1967, and 122.9 million pounds in 1963. Data for aluminum and aluminum-base alloy castings are not available.

<sup>6</sup>In 1967, the figure for iron and steel forgings produced and consumed by the same establishment was 20.5 thousand short tons. No comparable data for 1963 are available.

<sup>7</sup>Data on total consumption of aluminum foil are available, by end-use in Current Industrial Reports Series MA-34P, "Aluminum Foil Converted." The data in the Current Industrial Report include consumption by all establishments such as foil mills, foil converters, and others including food processing and other establishments converting foil for purposes of packaging a product. Data in this report are limited to establishments classified in the metal foil and leaf industry.

<sup>8</sup>Included with material code 331019 "All other carbon steel mill shapes and forms." The value for this item is less than $2.5 million.

<sup>10</sup>These figures are understated by $10 million or less because of apparent undercoverage of carbon steel pipe and tube.

Note: Detailed figures may not add to totals because of independent rounding or independent dropping of fractions of thousands (rather than rounding) in computer operations.

Standard notes: - represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. (Z) Under $50 thousand.

<sup>1</sup>No data are available on the quantities of castings, iron and steel forgings, or integral horsepower electric motors or generators produced and consumed in the same establishment except for 1963 for copper and copper base alloy castings (0.6 million pounds) and iron and steel forgings (0.4 thousand short tons).

<sup>3</sup>No data are available on the quantities of castings, iron and steel forgings, or integral horsepower motors and generators produced and consumed in the same establishment except for 1963 for iron castings which totaled 38.2 thousand short tons.

<sup>4</sup>These figures are understated by $20 million or less because of apparent undercoverage of carbon steel pipe and tube.

<sup>5</sup>Included with material code 970099, "All other materials and components, etc."

<sup>6</sup>In addition, the following quantities were produced and consumed into products at the same establishment: For 1967, Iron castings, 301.4 thousand short tons; Aluminum and aluminum-base alloy castings, 6.0 million pounds; and Gasoline and other carburetor engines, 25.7 thousand units. Comparable data for 1963 are: Iron castings, 301.3 thousand short tons; Aluminum and aluminum-base alloy castings, 2.4 million pounds; Iron and steel forgings, 5.1 thousand short tons; Gasoline and other carburetor engines, 75.7 thousand units; and Fractional horsepower electric motors, 2.0 thousand units.

For industry 3522 no data are available for either 1967 or 1963 for the quantities of steel castings, diesel and semidiesel engines or integral horsepower motors and generators nor in 1967 for iron and steel forgings or fractional horsepower electric motors produced and consumed in the same establishments.

Footnotes for Table 7A--35B

Note: Detailed figures may not add to totals because of independent rounding or independent dropping of fractions of thousands (rather than rounding) in computer operations.

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. <sup>c</sup>From 10 to 30 percent of this figure was estimated. (Z) Under 50 thousand.

<sup>3</sup>For 1967, the following materials were produced and consumed in the same establishment for industry 3531: iron and steel forgings (code 339100), 36.0 thousand short tons; and gasoline and other carburetor engines (code 351901), 9.3 thousand units. No other data are available for 1967 on the quantities of castings, forgings, engines, and integral horsepower motors and generators produced and consumed in the same establishment. For 1963, the following data are available: industry 3531--iron and steel forgings (code 339100), 34.0 thousand short tons; gasoline and other carburetor engines (code 351901), 9.4 thousand units; fractional horsepower electric motors (code 362115), 0.7 thousand units; integral horsepower motors and generators (1 hp. and over) (code 362120), 9.1 thousand units; industry 3532--iron castings (code 332011), 12.2 thousand short tons; steel castings (code 332300), 1.3 thousand short tons; copper castings (code 336200), 1.7 million pounds; industry 3533--iron castings (code 332011), 3.9 thousand short tons; steel castings (code 332300), 1.6 thousand short tons; industry 3535--iron castings (code 332011), 9.8 thousand short tons; fractional horsepower electric motors (code 362115), 0.3 thousand units; and industry 3537--integral horsepower motors and generators (1 hp. and over) (code 362120), 6.8 thousand units.

<sup>4</sup>This item represents the total cost of materials for establishments that did not report detailed materials data. For 1967 this includes estimates for companies that were not mailed report forms.

<sup>5</sup>These figures are understated by $5 million or less because of apparent undercoverage of carbon steel pipe and tube.

<sup>6</sup>Included with material code 970099. "All other materials and components, etc." to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies.

Note: Detailed figures may not add to totals because of independent rounding or independent dropping of fractions of thousands (rather than rounding) in computer operations.

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. From 10 to 30 percent of this figure was estimated. (Z) Under 50 thousand.

<sup>1</sup>The figures are understated by $5 million or less because of apparent undercoverage of carbon steel pipe and tubes.

<sup>2</sup>Included with material code 970099, "All other materials and components" to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies.

<sup>4</sup>For industry 3541, 35.1 thousand short tons of iron castings (code 332011) were produced and consumed in the same establishment in 1967. No other data are available for 1967 on the quantities of castings, iron and steel forgings, or electric motors and generators produced and consumed in the same establishment. For 1963, the following data are available: industry 3541--iron castings (code 332011), 33.8 thousand short tons; and industry 3548--other fractional horsepower electric motors (code 362115), 2,007.2 thousand units.

<sup>6</sup>Included with material code 970099, "All other materials and components, etc." The value of these individual materials is less than $2.5 million.

Note: Detailed figures may not add to totals because of independent rounding or independent dropping of fractions of thousands (rather than rounding) in computer operations.

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. <sup>3</sup>From 10 to 30 percent of this figure was estimated. (Z) Less than $50 thousand.

<sup>1</sup>For 1967, 77.1 thousand short tons of iron castings (code 332011) were produced and consumed in the same establishment for industry 3561. No other data are available for 1967 on the quantities of castings, forgings, engines, or electric motors and generators produced and consumed in the same establishment. For 1963, the following data are available: industry 3561-- iron castings (code 332011), 54.9 thousand short tons; fractional horsepower electric motors (code 362115), 420.4 thousand units; and integral horsepower motors and generators (code 362120), 13.4 thousand units; industry 3564-- iron castings (code 332011), 1.7 thousand short tons; and aluminum and aluminum-base alloy castings (code 336100), 0.5 thousand short tons; industry 3566-- iron castings (code 332011), 34.7 thousand short tons; and steel castings (code 332300), 0.1 thousand short tons; industry 3569-- iron castings (code 332011), 1.8 thousand short tons; and integral horsepower motors and generators (code 362120), 0.3 thousand units.

<sup>3</sup>Included with material code 970099 "All other materials and components, etc." to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies.

<sup>4</sup>These figures are understated by $5 million or less because of apparent undercoverage of carbon steel pipe and tube.

Note: Detailed figures may not add to totals because of independent rounding or independent dropping of fractions of thousands (rather than rounding) in computer operations.

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. <sup>a</sup>From 10 to 30 percent of this figure was estimated. (Z) Under 50 thousand (or under 50 employees).

<sup>1</sup>Included with material code 970099, "All other materials, etc." to avoid disclosing figures of individual companies.

<sup>2</sup>No data are available for the quantities of castings, electric motors and generators, electron tubes or solid state semiconductors produced and consumed in the same establishment.

<sup>3</sup>This item represents the total cost of materials for establishments that did not report detailed materials data. For 1967 this includes estimates for companies that were not mailed report forms.

<sup>4</sup>Includes extensive duplication because the products of some establishments are consumed as materials by other establishments in the same industry.

<sup>5</sup>Data for material code 331011, carbon steel bars and bar shapes, have been included with material codes 331015 through 331031 for industry 3574, calculating and accounting machines.

<sup>6</sup>Data for material code 331015, carbon steel structural shapes, have been included with material code 331019, all other carbon steel mill shapes and forms, for industry 3573, Electronic Computing Equipment.

<sup>7</sup>Aluminum sheet, plate, and foil, code 335202, is included with code 335209 "All other aluminum mill shapes and forms."

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. (Z) Under $50 thousand.

<sup>1</sup>Included with material code 970099, "All other materials and components..." to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies.

<sup>4</sup>Includes extensive duplication because the products of some establishments are consumed as materials by other establishments in the same industry.

<sup>5</sup>No data are available for 1967 on the quantities of castings and electric motors and generators produced and consumed in the same establishment. For 1963, the following data are available: industry 3589--iron castings (code 332011), 1.0 thousand short tons; and other fractional horsepower electric motors (code 362115), 8.7 thousand units; industry 3599--iron castings (code 332011), 7.7 thousand short tons; steel casting (code 332200), 0.9 thousand short tons; aluminum castings (code 336100) 2.9 million pounds; and copper castings (code 336200), 3.2 million pounds.

<sup>6</sup>These figures are understated by $10 million or less because of apparent undercoverage of carbon steel pipe and tube.

Note: Detailed figures may not add to totals because of independent rounding or independent dropping of fractions of thousands (rather than rounding) in computer operations.

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. <sup>2</sup>From 10 to 30 percent of this figure was estimated.

<sup>2</sup>Represents estimates published MC63(1)-8 (Supplement), Selected Materials Consumed, from data collected in a supplemental survey on Form MA-131, consumption of materials, parts, containers and supplies, during 1963. This survey was limited to large establishments in selected chemical, machinery and equipment industries and resulted in estimates which are subject to greater error than are the figures on materials consumption collected as a regular part of the census of manufactures.

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. <sup>6</sup>From 10 to 30 percent of this figure was estimated.

<sup>1</sup>No data are available for the quantities of castings, forgings, or electric motors and generators produced and consumed in the same establishment.

Note: Detailed figures may not add to totals because of independent rounding or independent dropping of fractions of thousands (rather than rounding) in computer operations.

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (X) Not applicable. (NA) Not available. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. In some cases figures which are otherwise publishable are withheld to avoid indirect disclosure by substraction from higher level totals or from related figures. <sup>e</sup>From 10 to 30 percent of this figure was estimated.

<sup>1</sup>No data are available on the quantities of castings, iron and steel forgings, engines, or integral horsepower electric motors and generators produced and consumed in the same establishment except for industry 3742 which had 11.8 thousand short tons of iron castings in 1963.

<sup>2</sup>This item represents the total cost of materials for establishments that did not report detailed materials data. For 1967, this includes estimates for companies that were not mailed report forms.

WATER USE IN MANUFACTURING: 1968

GENERAL

This report contains statistics showing the use of water by manufacturing industries in 1968 with selected comparable data for 1964.

Information on industrial water use by manufacturing establishments was first collected and published by the Bureau of the Census in the 1953 Annual Survey of Manufactures. In the 1963 Census of Manufactures, as in the 1954 Census, information on water use was collected from all manufacturing establishments employing six or more people, except for establishments in the printing and publishing and apparel industries. The latter establishments are relatively small water users and/or operate primarily in rented quarters where water is generally furnished by the landlord. The detailed information on water utilization for 1968 was collected and published for those manufacturing establishments using 20 million gallons of water or more per establishment.

Information was not collected in the 1958 Census of Manufactures. However, a special post-census survey was taken in 1959, which included all establishments reporting water use of 20 million gallons or more in 1954 as well as all companies having at least one establishment with 250 employees or more in the 1958 Census of Manufactures. In industries known to be extensive users of water, all establishments with 100 employees or more were included.

Approximately 85 percent of the 15.5 trillion gallons consumed by manufacturing establishments in 1968 was accounted for by four major industry groups; namely, Primary Metal Industries (Major Group 33), Chemicals and Allied Products (Major Group 28), Paper and Allied Products (Major Group 26), and Petroleum and Coal Products (Major Group 29). In fact, almost all the increase in industrial demand for water from 1964 to 1968 (1,460 billion gallons) can be attributed to these four major industry groups. Even within these major groups, specific industries accounted for the major share: Blast furnaces and steel mills consumed about 26 percent of the total manufacturing consumption of water and manufacturers of industrial chemicals used about 22 percent of the total. About 60 percent of industrial water was consumed by establishments located in five Water-Use Regions; namely, the Delaware and Hudson, the Ohio River, the Eastern Great Lakes, the Western Great Lakes, and the Western Gulf Regions.

MANUFACTURERS USE OF WATER

While manufacturing industries are important users of water in the United States, the utilization by such establishments is highly concentrated. According to the 1968 survey, establishments with an annual water intake of 20 million gallons of water or more accounted for about 97 percent of water withdrawn for manufacturing purposes. These plants, however, represent only about 4 percent of the total number of manufacturing establishments and employ approximately 44 percent of the total number of persons engaged in manufacturing within the major groups covered in this survey (see Table AA).

1968 INDUSTRIAL WATER USE

In the 1967 Census of Manufactures, the standard census forms submitted by all establishments employing 10 people or more, contained a check-type question on water consumption in terms of broad size ranges of gallonage usage. The returns indicated that, of the total number of establishments with ten employees or more, approximately 10,500 establishments reported using 20 million gallons of water or more. These "large" water users were included in the special water survey for 1968 (MC-D13A) and of that number, 9,400 establishments reported, for 1968, detailed information on water use by source; purpose of water intake; point of discharge, and kind of water treatment. Excluded from the 1968 survey were establishments in Major Groups 23, Apparel, and 27, Printing and Publishing. Data were collected for Major Group 19, Ordnance and Accessories; however, the water intake is not shown separately for this group. All data for water use exclude government owned establishments operated by private contractors for the account of the Atomic Energy Commission. The 1968, 1964, and 1959 figures, but not those for 1954, include data for establishments located in Alaska and Hawaii.

While the quantity of water intake by manufacturing establishments is relatively large, the quantities actually consumed in process, by evaporation, etc., is only about 8 percent of the withdrawals. Data on net use, as defined above, may be calculated in the tables shown in this report by subtracting water discharged from water intake. Gross water use, as shown in the tables, reflects recirculation or reuse of the water in the same establishments and partially reflects water management. While no measure of the deterioration of the water resulting from use is available, data are shown for the quantities of intake water treated as well as for treatment of water for discharge.

The tables appearing in this chapter (tables 1 to 9) provide statistics for establishments using 20 million gallons or more annually, and include those which recirculate and those which treat discharge water. The arrangement of the data is by industry, industrial water-use region, and State. The boundaries for States are political, while those for industrial water-use regions are combinations of counties without regard for State lines. These regions, which center around river basins, were developed in consultations with the Federal agencies having responsibility for water development or use and with representatives of private industry and they approximate the major drainage systems in the country. The areas included are shown in a series of maps appearing in this report. The industry classifications used are based on the 1967 edition of the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) manual (see Introduction).

Totals for water use have been provided for the SIC industry classifications at the 2-, 3-, and 4-digit levels. Differences in manufacturing processes are not as great at the SIC 4-digit level as at the higher order 2- and 3-digit levels. Accordingly, the water-use statistics are most meaningful when examined on a 4-digit SIC basis and related to the processes, products, employment data, etc., at that level. The aggregations at the 3-, but particularly at the 2-digit levels, represent totals for industries which differ widely in processes used, materials fabricated, or products produced. (See Introduction--Industry Classification of Establishments.) Thus, for example, the water consumption use for Major Group 26, Paper and Allied Products, will differ in the Pacific Northwest Water Use Region from that in California Water Use Region because of industrial composition as well as because of geography or other factors.

WATER, EMPLOYMENT, VALUE ADDED, AND VALUE OF SHIPMENTS

While industrial processes and geography determine very largely the consumption pattern of water intake, differing manufacturing practices and institutional variations also affect the use and reuse of water. Measures regarding the relationship of water intake and water management to industrial activity are frequently needed to gauge present and future industrial water requirements.

To facilitate such studies at either local or regional levels, the tables shown in this report contain data showing, for selected industrial groups, the employment, value added by manufacture, and value of shipments, for significant water users which, as indicated above, account for practically all industrial water consumption. The most valid use of these data is to provide measures of industrial activity for significant water-using establishments as well as to show those establishments which circulate water, treat water discharge or use water for other purposes. The industrial activity measures (employment, value of shipments, and value added by manufacture) are from the census of manufactures covering the year 1967.

DEFINITION OF INDUSTRIAL WATER USE TERMS

The terms "establishments," "manufacturing industries," "industry classifications," "Standard Industrial Classification," "employment," "value of shipments," value added," are defined in the Introduction.

Water Intake:

Public Water System. Fresh water supplied by a water system (whether publicly or privately owned) whose primary purpose is to supply water to the general public. The data also include fresh water supplied by systems whose principal function is to supply water to industrial users.

Company Water System. Fresh water supplied from a company's water supply system or obtained from another company where the supplying company is not primarily a water supplier to the general public and/or industrial users. The data also include only that portion of fresh water obtained from a joint water supply system operated by the reporting company.

Brackish water is defined as all water with more than 1,000 parts per million of dissolved solids.

Gross Water Used. Represents the estimated quantity of water that would have been required if no water had been recirculated or reused. For example, if total water intake was 400 million gallons and of this 400 million gallons, 100 million gallons were used twice for cooling purposes and once for washing products or materials, the total water required would be 300 million gallons, plus the 300 million gallons not recirculated, for a total of 600 million gallons (less consumption and evaporation loss).

Water Discharged:

Total. Quantity of water brought to ultimate discharge point. The data exclude quantities of water held in ponds, lagoons, or basins, for reuse or treatment, or water discharged by evaporation processes.

Ground. Includes quantities which seep into ground from collection basins, such as ponds, lagoons, etc.

Transferred to Others Users. Includes quantities transferred after use, to another establishment of either your company or another company.

Water Treated. The total quantity of water treated for control of biological growth, removal of suspended or dissolved solids, for corrosion control, or for any other purpose by simple or complex methods.

Water Intake Treated. Excludes quantities of intake water treated only by chlorination.

Water Discharge Treated. Includes quantities treated for discharge by all methods, including chlorination.

SELECTED METALWORKING OPERATIONS

The 1967 Census of Manufactures included a special inquiry on "Selected metalworking and related operations" to provide a measurement of employment in certain metalworking and related facilities in manufacturing. The following operations were included in this inquiry: Foundry (iron and steel); foundry (nonferrous, except die casting); die casting (nonferrous metal only); forging--presses, hammers, or upsetters (excluding manufacture of nuts, bolts, etc.); electroplating and other plating; galvanizing and other hot-dip coating; heat treating of metals for production purposes; automatic screw machine department; machine shop; tool and die shop (if separate from machine shop) for jigs, fixtures, dies, and other special tooling; pattern shop (foundry patterns only - metal, wood, etc.); plate or structural fabrication; stamping, blanking, and forming of metals; painting, lacquering, and enameling on metals; plastics molding; assembly of product; and shipping department (including packing and crating).

Data on the number of establishments and the number of production workers engaged in specific metalworking operations are shown in table 1A for each of approximately 130 industries included in this special inquiry. The size distribution data in table 1A is based on the number of production workers usually employed in the operation. The number of production workers engaged in these operations is shown for 15 selected operations by industry in table 1B and for 13 selected operations by geographic division and State in table 2.

Information on selected metalworking operations was obtained for practically all industries where such operations are important. For individual industries or groups of industries, the inquiry on metalworking and related operations was tailored to fit the principal operations that were characteristic of those industries.

Since establishments with less than 10 employees were typically excused from filing reports, these establishments are not included in the metalworking operations data. (See the introduction for further explanation.) Also a few larger establishments that filed standard forms did not report their metalworking operations. This has resulted in an understatement of the number of establishments performing specific operations, primarily in the smallest size class, and to a much smaller degree in an understatement of the number of production workers in the operation.

An approximation of the coverage for each industry is given in table 1C. The coverage is generally highest in industries in which larger establishments have predominance. Similar percentages are not available for geographic divisions and States, although coverage ranges for significant metalworking States would range between 85 and 95 percent.

For the forging industries (SIC 3391 and 3392), table 1A contains separate data for hot forging - presses, hammers, or upsetters (excluding manufacture of nuts, bolts, etc.), and cold forging. These data are included with operation entitled "forging: presses, hammers, or upsetters," in tables 1B and 2.

Since the report form used by respondents in industry 3471, Plating and Polishing, did not include the metalworking inquiry, the total number of production workers for establishments classified in industry 3471 are shown separately in table 2. Plating and polishing operations performed by establishments classified in industry 3471 are excluded from tables 1A, 1B, and 1C.

Note: Very small establishments were excluded from the mail portion of the 1967 Census of Manufactures and, in some instances, a few larger establishments failed to report data for metalworking operations. The significance of this undercoverage is shown in table 1C.

Standard notes: - Represents zero. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. (NA) Not available. (X) Not applicable.

<sup>1</sup>These size groups are based on the number of employees engaged in each specific operation. They are not based on total employment in the establishment.

<sup>1</sup>Since each of these industries by definition cover activities for which separate information was included in the metalworking operations inquiry, it is inconsistent for respondents classified in these industries to indicate that none of the operations apply. The entry shown in the column entitled "percent of total employees in establishments which reported 'none' of the operations apply" indicates the significance of such inconsistencies. Since such percentages are typically small this factor is not considered important.

CONCENTRATION RATIOS

GENERAL

This special report provides concentration ratios and other information on the share of industrial activity accounted for by the largest companies, both for the United States as a whole and for each of approximately 422 manufacturing industries. It brings forward the information published in the 1966 Annual Survey of Manufactures reports, Value of Shipment Concentration Ratios by Industry, M66(AS)-8 and M66(AS)-8 Supplement. The latter report was also published as chapter 9 of the 1966 Annual Survey of Manufactures volume.

CONCENTRATION RATIOS AND THE ESTABLISHMENT BASIS OF REPORTING

The concentration ratios based on census of manufactures data have consistently been prepared from establishment reports. Virtually all other studies have been prepared on a consolidated company basis; that is, the entire sales or assets of a given company are tabulated under one industry heading. Under the establishment system, on the other hand, the shipments of a given company are distributed among all of the industries in which it has establishments. In tables 1 through 4 in this report, which reflect the activity of the largest companies in the industrial sector as a whole, the establishment approach means that only the manufacturing establishments of these companies are taken into account in determining their size. In table 5, a "company" is defined as the total of the individual establishments under one ownership within an industry. Consequently, the same company may appear in several industries, if it has diversified activities.

CONCENTRATION RATIOS AND THE SIC SYSTEM

In essence, the SIC system seeks to establish spheres of economic activity which are unique and distinguishable from other spheres because of a composite of similar characteristics which they have in common. These characteristics include similarity of products in terms of their uses and the bringing together of plants which specialize in making these products and account for a significant proportion of their total shipments. They also include similarity of processes, similarity of materials used, and the bringing together of a group of plants which are economically significant in terms of their number, value added by manufacture, value of shipments, and number of employees. These standards flow very largely from the actual structure into which American businesses have grouped themselves and it is these characteristics that make it the best single system for the largest number of uses. In the great majority of instances, an industry is comprised of producers of similar goods or services. Usually, but not always, the products are made of similar materials and by similar processes and the producers usually compete with one another.

For the purpose of measuring concentration, the fact that the classification system is not based exclusively on the usage of the product is somewhat of a limitation, since in the economic concept of the market it is immaterial whether products which are substitutable for each other are produced by the same processes or made from the same materials. In some cases, the industry and product definitions are too broad; that is, there are included in the same category products which do not serve the same function and are thus not substitutable for each other. In other cases they are too narrow; that is, a single category fails to include products which are substitutable, for example, metal and glass containers.

Another limitation is the fact that the classification's industries and products are regularly being redefined. The need for redefinition arises particularly from the introduction of new products, the declining importance of older products, the introduction of new technologies, the growth of small fields into important industries, and similar dynamic developments. While necessary to keep the classification abreast of the changing nature of the economy, an inevitable cost of redefinition is the loss of comparability for many categories over time. Among other limitations of concentration ratios, may be mentioned the problems associated with industries which have local or regional rather than national markets, and the necessity for using domestic production (or its approximate equivalent in shipments), rather than domestic consumption, as a measure of the size of the market. These and other qualifications are discussed at greater length in the introduction to the 1963 Census report, Concentration Ratios in Manufacturing Industry, Part 1.

TABLES 1 THROUGH 4—These tables reflect the activity of the largest companies in the industrial sector as a whole. A "company" is defined for this purpose as the total of its industrial establishments, including not only its manufacturing plants but also auxiliary establishments such as warehouses and central administrative offices.

Concentration at this level is measured in terms of value added by manufacture. In these census tabulations, value added is preferable to sales or shipments in measuring total company size, since an aggregation of shipments from the census establishment records would contain duplication owing to intracompany transfers of products. Value added for all manufacturing establishments of a given company was aggregated irrespective of the industry classification of the individual establishments. The companies were then arrayed by magnitude of value added in each specified year and totals computed for the 50, 100, 150, and 200 largest companies.

The standard formula for calculating value added by manufacture since 1958 differs from the one used for the 1954 census and earlier years. During the earlier period, the value added of an establishment was calculated by subtracting the cost of materials, supplies, containers, fuels, purchased electric energy, and contract work from the value of shipments for products manufactured plus miscellaneous receipts for services rendered. This is known as unadjusted value added in census publications. Beginning with 1958, the measure of value added has been adjusted for each establishment in two respects. Value added now includes: (1) Value added by merchandising (that is, the difference between the sales value and cost of merchandise sold without further manufacture, processing or assembly); and (2) an adjustment for the net change in finished goods and work-in-process inventories between the beginning and the end of the year. The resulting figure is the adjusted value added.

Thus, the rankings of the 200 largest companies in 1947 and 1954 were based on unadjusted value added; those for later years were based on adjusted value added. The use of these different measures for determining size should have little effect on the ranking and relative shares of individual companies or on the aggregate shares of the 50, 100, 150, or 200 largest companies in each year.

Except for tables 2 and 3, companies were classified in size groups in each particular year based on their size in that year. Thus, a size group (such as the top four) does not necessarily include the same companies from year to year. The extent to which large companies have grown or declined over the years is reflected in tables 2 and 3. Table 3 shows, for example, that, of the companies which constituted the 50 largest in 1967, only 24 were among the 50 largest 20 years earlier.

Note: 1962 and 1966 based on the Annual Survey of Manufactures, other years on the Census of Manufactures.

The 50 largest companies in each specified year were selected and the rank group of the same companies determined in other years. This table thus measures the shifting of position of a fixed group of companies from one year to another. In case of mergers, the larger of the two at the time of the merger was considered to be the predecessor company.

<sup>2</sup>Includes a substantial but unmeasurable amount of duplication because of shipments of materials and products among manufacturing establishments for further processing.

TABLE 5—This table is based on the establishment approach described in the general introduction. A "company" is defined as the total of the individual establishments under one ownership within an industry. Consequently, the same company may appear in several industries if it has diversified activities. In addition, the following points should be kept in mind:

(1) The top four, eight, 20, and 50 companies are the largest for any particular year based on their value of shipments in that year and are therefore not necessarily the same companies from year to year.

(2) For a few industries, as indicated by footnotes, value added by manufacture rather than value of shipments has been used to determine the size of companies. This is considered necessary for industries in which the aggregate value of shipments contains a large amount of duplication because of shipments of semifinished products between establishments. An example is SIC 3585, Refrigeration Machinery, in which there are extensive intraindustry sales and transfers of components and subassemblies to producers of complete refrigerators and air conditioners. (The historical changes in the method for calculating value added by manufacture are described in the introduction to tables 1 through 4.)

(3) Ratios are shown for years prior to 1967 only if the SIC industry definitions were considered comparable. As noted in the general introduction, there were extensive revisions in the SIC in 1957 which, in table 5, result in suppression of data for 1958 and earlier years for a substantial number of industries. In general, the criteria used for judging the comparability of definitions was the effect of the change on number of employees in the industry under the old and new definitions. If the new definition caused more than a 2-percent change, the historical data were suppressed.

(4) The 1966 concentration ratios are based on data developed in the Annual Survey of Manufactures. Since the industry aggregates which provide the denominators in the concentration ratios are based on a sample, they are subject to sampling errors. In the 1966 concentration report referred to in the general introduction, sampling errors for each industry as well as a more complete description of the Annual Survey of Manufactures sample are shown.

Standard Notes: - Represents zero. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. (NA) Not available. (X) Not applicable. (S) Data suppressed because some of the largest companies were approximately the same size as others not included in the sample, and therefore a reliable numerator could not be computed. Revised.

n.e.c. Not elsewhere classified. n.s.k. Not specified by kind.

<sup>1</sup>Industry codes and descriptions are based on the 1957 Standard Industrial Classification Manual (SIC) as modified through 1967. This classification system represented a substantial revision from the previous 1945 edition and was put into effect with the final reports in the 1958 census. However, the concentration ratios in 1958 were tabulated on the 1945 edition to preserve comparability to prior years. Also in 1958, establishments in Alaska and Hawaii were not included as part of U.S. industry totals since these States did not attain Statehood until 1959. Data and ratios for 1958 and prior years are shown in this report only if the industry definitions are so closely comparable that the concentration ratios could not be affected by the shifting of plants due to industry classification changes or by the change in treatment of Alaska and Hawaii. (See "Concentration Ratios in Manufacturing Industry: 1958," Part I, table 7, for comparability of old-new industry definitions.)

<sup>2</sup>The determination of company affiliation of establishments is based on census reports and publicly available records. Value of shipment totals for establishments have been summarized into company totals in each manufacturing industry. "Largest" companies are determined by each company's value of shipments in the specified industry.

<sup>3</sup>Value of shipments figures are not completely comparable between the years 1963-67 and prior years. They include for all establishments classified in the industry (a) value of products primary to the industry, (b) value of all secondary products which are primary to other industries, (c) value of miscellaneous receipts such as receipts for contract and commission work on materials owned by others, scrap, salable refuse, repairs, etc., and (d) value of resales--i.e., products resold in same condition as bought. In 1958 and prior years value of resales was excluded from value of shipments.

<sup>4</sup>The percentages consist of the sum of the value of shipments of the largest 4 companies (or 8, 20, or 50 companies), divided by the total value of shipments of the industry.

<sup>5</sup>The "primary product specialization ratio" measures the extent to which plants classified in the industry specialize in making products regarded as primary to the industry; that is, value of shipments of primary products of plants in the industry is expressed as a ratio of the total shipments of all products made by these establishments (excluding miscellaneous receipts, such as receipts for contract and commission work on materials owned by others, scrap and salable refuse, repair, etc.).

<sup>6</sup>The "coverage ratio" measures the extent to which all shipments of primary products of an industry are made by plants classified in the industry, as distinguished from secondary producers elsewhere; that is, value of shipments of the primary products made by plants classified in the industry is expressed as a ratio of the total shipments of primary products made by all producers, both in and out of the specified industry.

<sup>7</sup>Value added by manufacture is shown for this industry rather than value of shipments because the latter contains a substantial and unmeasurable amount of duplication. The calculations for the 4, 8, 20, and 50 largest companies also are based on value added. The value added figure for 1963 and later years is adjusted value added; for 1958 and prior years it is unadjusted value added. Adjusted value added is calculated by subtracting the cost of materials including cost of resales from the value of shipments including resales and adjusting for the change in finished products and work-in-process inventories during the year. Unadjusted value added excludes value added by resales and any inventory change.

<sup>8</sup>Not completely comparable to 1954 and later years because of a change in industry classification. For discussion of 1947 to 1954 comparability, see 1954 Census of Manufactures, Volume II, Industry Statistics, "Dairy Products."

<sup>9</sup>In 1954, industry 2027, Fluid Milk, was composed of two industries, 2026, Fluid Milk (only), and 2027, Fluid Milk and Other Products. In 1954 figures on value of shipments and share of value of shipments accounted for by the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recalculated on a basis comparable to 1958. In 1947 and earlier years, establishments primarily distributing fluid milk were classified as nonmanufacturing.

<sup>10</sup>Establishments in Alaska and Hawaii are important producers in this industry. Recomputed figures cannot be shown for the 4, 8, 20, and 50 companies prior to 1963 without disclosing the operation of individual companies in Alaska and Hawaii.

TABLE 5. Percent of Value of Shipments Accounted for by the Largest Companies in Each Manufacturing Industry: 1967 and Earlier Years—Continued

FOOTNOTES--Continued

<sup>11</sup>Value of production shown for this industry rather than value of shipments. For 1963 and subsequent years the figure includes value of primary and secondary products made, miscellaneous receipts such as receipts for contract and commission work on materials owned by others, scrap and other salable refuse, and the value of products bought and resold in the same condition. For 1958 and prior years resales are excluded.

<sup>12</sup>The 1954 data for industry 2036 are not completely comparable to 1958 and subsequent years; 1947 data are not available. In 1947 industry 2036, Packaged Seafood, was in part (frozen packaged seafood) included in industry 2037, Frozen Fruits, Vegetables, and Fish, and in part (fresh packaged seafood) included in nonmanufacturing industries (principally industry 5046, Fish and Seafoods). A significant but undetermined number of establishments classified in industry 2036 in 1958 and 1963 were probably classified in industry 5046 in 1954.

<sup>13</sup>Includes data for 21 wholesale distributors of malt liquors. Each had less than 10 employees and had no significant effect on any of the statistics for the industry except the establishment and company counts.

<sup>14</sup>Bonded store rooms which were engaged in blending wines were included in 1966, 1963, 1958, and 1954, but excluded in 1947.

<sup>15</sup>The discrepancy between these figures and those appearing in table 1 of the 1958 Census of Manufactures, Volume II, Chapter 20H, Fats and Oils (82 companies and $994,865 thousand value of shipments) is due to a misclassification of 16 small companies into industry 2092. These companies should have been classified into industry 2096, Shortening and Cooking Oils.

<sup>16</sup>The 1957 SIC combined into this industry two industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 2882, Linseed Oil Mills, and industry 2884, Vegetable Oil Mills, N.E.C. The 1958 value of shipments figures for these two industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and 1966.

<sup>17</sup>The SIC, as revised in 1963, combined into this industry two industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 2886, Grease and Tallow, and industry 2889, Animal Oils, N.E.C. The 1958 value of shipments figures for these two industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and 1966.

<sup>18</sup>The 1957 SIC combined into this industry two industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 2092, Shortening and Cooking Oils, and industry 2093, Margarine. The 1958 value of shipments figures for these two industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and 1966.

<sup>19</sup>Comparable data are not available because of significant changes in the 1947 classification of plants or products in this industry.

<sup>20</sup>Jobbers were included in 1947 but excluded in 1954 and later years.

<sup>21</sup>Value of production shown for this industry in 1958 and prior years whereas value of shipments is shown for 1963 and later years. This change does not affect the comparability significantly. For industries 2253, 2254, 2256 and 2259, the method of computing coverage and specialization ratios was changed in 1967, causing a significant decrease in some ratios. See the separate report in the Industry Series for a more detailed discussion of this subject.

<sup>22</sup>The SIC combined in this industry two industries which were separate in the 1957 SIC: industry 2255, Knit Glove Mills, and industry 2259, Knitting Mills, N.E.C. The 1958 value of production figures for these two industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and later years.

<sup>23</sup>Includes finished cotton broadwoven fabrics (except commission finishing) which are also primary to industry 2211, Weaving Mills, Cotton. See the separate report for this industry in the Industry Series for a more detailed discussion of this subject.

<sup>24</sup>Includes finished synthetic fabrics (except commission finishing) which are also primary to industry 2221, Weaving Mills, Synthetics. See the separate report for this industry in the Industry Series for a more detailed discussion of this subject.

<sup>25</sup>Includes finished yarns except wool which are also primary to industry 2281, Yarn Mills, Except Wool. See the separate report for this industry in the Industry Series for a more detailed discussion of this subject.

<sup>26</sup>Excludes shipments of finished purchased yarns from establishments classified in industry 2269, Finishing Plants, N.E.C. See the separate report for this industry in the Industry Series for a more detailed discussion of this subject.

<sup>27</sup>This industry included a large number of very small establishments in 1958, and there is a possibility that some were misclassified as to industry. Industry misclassification of these small establishments does not affect significantly any statistics other than the number of establishments and companies.

<sup>28</sup>This industry included a large number of very small establishments in 1963 and some of these small establishments may have been misclassified as to industry. Industry misclassification of these small establishments does not affect significantly any statistics other than the number of establishments and companies.

<sup>29</sup>Includes products of Knitting Mills (SIC Group 225) which are primary to industries 2253 and 2254. See the separate report for this industry in the Industry Series for a more detailed discussion of this subject.

<sup>30</sup>Includes the shipments of women's and children's knit underwear and nightwear made in knitting mills (primary products of industry 2254) as well as the shipments of these products cut and sewed from purchased knit cloth. See the separate report for this industry in the Industry Series for a more detailed discussion of this subject.

<sup>31</sup>The 1957 SIC combined into this industry four industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 2281, Fur-Felt Hats and Hat Bodies; industry 2282, Wool-Felt Hats and Hat Bodies; industry 2283, Straw Hats; and industry 2325, Men's and Boys' Cloth Hats. The 1958 value of production figures for these four industries have been combined and the ratios for the largest 4 and 8 companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and 1966.

<sup>32</sup>Includes the shipments of children's knit outerwear made in Knitting Mills (primary products of industry 2253) as well as the shipments of these products cut and sewed from purchased knit cloth. See the separate report for this industry in the Industry Series for a more detailed discussion of this subject.

<sup>33</sup>Includes the shipments of fabric gloves made in Knitting Mills (primary products of industry 2259) as well as the shipments of fabric gloves cut and sewed from purchased fabrics.

<sup>34</sup>The 1957 SIC combined in this industry two industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 2381, Fabric Dress Gloves, and industry 2382, Fabric Work Gloves. The 1958 value of shipments figures for these two industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and 1966.

<sup>35</sup>A review of the reports for 1963 indicated that there were approximately 300 very small companies included in this industry which described their activities as custom drapery producers, interior decorators workrooms, etc. Approximately half of these companies were classified as nonmanufacturing in the 1958 Census.

<sup>36</sup>For 1963 the value of shipments total includes shipments of logs for establishments that own and maintain timberlands but contract the cutting of logs to others. The establishments that actually performed the logging on a contract basis also reported their receipts for contract logging under the heading total value of shipments. Thus, an undetermined amount of duplication exists in the shipments total. The figures previously reported for 1958 and prior years do not include shipments for timberland owners that do not perform their own logging.

<sup>37</sup>The coverage ratio for this industry is unusually low because of the large amount of wood chips manufactured by establishments classified in industry 2421, Sawmills and Planing Mills, general.

<sup>38</sup>The 1957 SIC combined in this industry two industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 2562, Window Shades, and industry 2563, Venetian Blinds. The 1958 value of shipments figures for these two industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and 1966.

<sup>39</sup>Beginning with 1958, the concentration ratios for this industry are not comparable to those published for earlier years. In the 1958 Census of Manufactures integrated pulp and paper companies were given the option of reporting their pulp and paper (or board) operations on a combined basis when both were conducted at a single physical location. Most integrated companies exercised this option and filed a single report covering their pulp, paper (or board) making operations at a single physical location, but a few with departmental accounting chose to report separately for the pulp mill and paper (or board) mill, as they were required to do in 1954 and 1947. The only other pulp mills separately reported in the 1958 Census of Manufactures were (1) those exclusively selling their pulp on the market (i.e., not associated or affiliated with a paper and board mill), and (2) those pulp mills affiliated or associated with paper or board mills but operated at a different physical location from the paper or board mill(s).

<sup>40</sup>The 1957 SIC combined in this industry two industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 2781, Bookbinding, and industry 2789, Miscellaneous Bookbinding Work. The 1958 value of shipments figures for these two industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and 1966.

<sup>41</sup>Comparable data for previous years are not available. In 1967, industry 2814, Cyclic (Coal Tar) Crudes, was included in industry 2815, Intermediate coal tar products.

<sup>42</sup>Comparable data are not available. In 1947, industry 2818, Organic Chemicals, N.E.C., included industry 2815, Intermediates and Organic Colors.

<sup>43</sup>Government-owned establishments that are privately operated are included in this industry but did not enter into the calculation of the specialization and coverage ratios as all dollar receipts for these establishments were included as primary receipts.

FOOTNOTES--Continued

<sup>44</sup>The 1957 SIC combined in this industry two industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 2819, Inorganic Chemicals, N.E.C., and industry 2811, Sulfuric Acid. The 1958 value of shipments figures for these two industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and 1966.

<sup>45</sup>Includes lubricating oils and greases which are also primary to industry 2992, Lubricating Oils and Greases. See the separate report for this industry in the Industry Series for a more detailed discussion of this subject.

<sup>46</sup>Includes lubricating oils and greases which are also primary to industry 2911, Petroleum Refining. See the separate report for this industry in the Industry Series for a more detailed discussion of this subject.

<sup>47</sup>Includes data for industry 2991, Fuel Briquets and Packaged Fuels, and industry 2999, Petroleum and Coal Products, N.E.C. These industries were shown separately in 1947.

<sup>48</sup>The 1957 SIC combined in this industry two industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 3192, Saddlery, Harness, and Whips, and industry 3199, Leather Goods, N.E.C. The 1958 value of shipments figures for these two industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and 1966.

<sup>49</sup>This is a minimum ratio. The exact ratio is withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies.

<sup>50</sup>The 1958 and earlier years' shipments and associated concentration ratios are not comparable to 1963 and 1966 because of the significant amount of resales excluded in the earlier period.

<sup>51</sup>Ready-mixed concrete was included in the census of manufactures for the first time in 1958. No comparable information is available for earlier years.

<sup>53</sup>The value of shipments for this industry totaled $16,418 million in 1963. These values, however, include duplication in that the products of some establishments are used as materials by others. A specialization ratio computed on the basis of net value of shipments would approximate 94 percent for 1963 and 1967. Although a coverage ratio cannot be computed precisely, it would exceed 84 percent for 1967 and 86 percent for 1963. Approximate ratios for 1958 were: specialization, 94 percent; coverage, 84 percent.

<sup>54</sup>Industry 3312, Blast Furnaces and Steel Mills, has been redefined since 1954 to include industry 3311, Blast Furnaces; industry 3312, Steelworks and Rolling Mills; industry 2931, Beehive Coke Ovens; and industry 2932, Byproduct Coke Ovens. For 1954 and 1947, value added by manufacture and shares accounted for by the largest 4, 8, and 20 companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to later years.

<sup>55</sup>This ratio is based on shipments of primary products only by this industry. However, some of these products are also primary to one or more other industries. See the separate report for this industry in the Industry Series for a more detailed discussion of this subject.

<sup>56</sup>Industry 3321, Gray Iron Foundries, includes, in addition to commercial (jobbing) foundries, "captive" foundries at separate locations producing gray iron castings for other plants of the same company. Accordingly, the ratios for this industry do not reflect the market shares in the commercial foundry industry as such.

<sup>57</sup>Ratios not meaningful because total value of primary products shipped include a significant amount of duplication.

<sup>58</sup>Comparable data are not available due to significant revisions in the 1954 classification of plants or products in this industry.

<sup>59</sup>A number of small establishments was misclassified into this industry. This affects the figure for the number of companies but has no appreciable effect on the total value of shipments or the percentage of value of shipments accounted for by the largest companies.

<sup>60</sup>The 1957 SIC combined in this industry three industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 3422, Edge Tools; industry 3423, Hand Tools, N.E.C.; and industry 3424, Files. The 1958 value of shipments figures for these three industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and later years.

<sup>61</sup>Revisions were made to this industry for prior years to include automobile stampings plants operated by automobile producing companies. Concentration ratios cannot be published for prior years on a revised basis without approximating the operations of individual companies.

<sup>63</sup>The 1957 SIC combined in this industry three industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 3465, Enameling and Lacquering; industry 3466, Galvanizing; and industry 3467, Engraving on Metal. The 1958 value of shipments figures for these three industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and later years.

<sup>64</sup>Not completely comparable to 1966 and earlier years. Some companies included construction receipts, with value of shipments in 1966 and prior years. Such receipts are excluded in 1967.

<sup>65</sup>Comparable data are not available for 1966 and earlier years because of significant changes in the 1967 classification of plants or products of this industry.

<sup>66</sup>Comparable data are not available for prior years as this industry was not separately identified prior to 1967.

<sup>67</sup>Ratios not meaningful because total value of primary products shipped include a significant amount of duplication.

<sup>68</sup>Comparable data are not available due to significant revisions in the 1954 classification of plants or products in this industry.

<sup>69</sup>Comparable figures not available. Ratios were calculated originally on value of shipments in 1954 and 1947. 1954 ratios for the largest 4 and 8 companies have been recalculated based on value added; 1947 ratios based on value added are not available.

<sup>70</sup>Prior to 1967 industries 3711 and 3714 were combined and identified as industry 3717.

<sup>71</sup>Data for 1966 and 1963 have been revised by the exclusion of automotive stamping plants operated by automobile producing companies, as a result of this revision, these plants are now classified in the metal stampings industry (SIC 3461). Data for years prior to 1963 have not been revised.

<sup>72</sup>Not completely comparable to 1958, and later years because of a change in the SIC System. In 1958 and later years, an establishment manufacturing complete aircraft was classified in industry 3721, Aircraft, if its value of work done on aircraft exceeded its value of shipments of any other single industry's products. In 1954 and earlier years, any establishment manufacturing at least one complete aircraft was classified in industry 3721.

<sup>73</sup>Value of work done rather than value of shipments. Includes miscellaneous receipts such as receipts for contract work and commission work on materials owned by others, scrap, salable refuse, repair work, etc.

<sup>75</sup>The 1957 SIC combined into this industry two industries which were separate in the 1945 SIC: industry 3952, Lead Pencils and Crayons, and industry 3954, Artists' Materials. The 1958 value of shipments figures for these two industries have been combined and the ratios for the 4 and 8 largest companies have been recomputed on a basis comparable to 1963 and later years.

<sup>76</sup>The 1967 SIC combined into this industry six industries which were separate in the 1957 SIC: industry 3983, Matches; 3984, Candles; 3987, Lamp Shades; 3992, Furs, Dressed and Dyed; 3995, Umbrellas, Parasols and Canes; and 3999, Miscellaneous Products, N.E.C. concentration ratio data are not available for 1966 or prior years.

MANUFACTURING ACTIVITY IN GOVERNMENT ESTABLISHMENTS

This special report presents data of manufacturing activities for selected government establishments within the United States. These data are not included in other 1967 Census of Manufactures reports, which cover privately operated establishments only. Manufacturing establishments owned by the Federal Government and operated by private companies either for the government or for their own account are included with privately operated establishments. Three types of establishments are covered in this report: (1) Manufacturing facilities owned and operated by the Department of Defense; (2) prison industries (Federal, District of Columbia, and State); and (3) manufacturing facilities owned and operated by other U.S. Government agencies. The data were prepared with the cooperation of the Department of Defense, the Department of Justice, the Department of Interior, and the District of Columbia and State prison systems.

MANUFACTURING FACILITIES OWNED BY THE U.S. GOVERNMENT AND OPERATED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

Data are shown in tables 1A and 1B for manufacturing facilities owned by the U.S. Government and operated by the Department of Defense. Although these establishments may also be engaged in nonmanufacturing activities at the same location, the statistics represent only their activities relating to manufacturing. All manufacturing installations which produce goods or perform manufacturing services, such as industrial research and development, are covered in this report. Data resulting from the conversion and modification of ships and aircraft by the Army, Navy, and Air Force, are also included. Data for 1967 and 1963 are not comparable due to the inclusion of manufacturing activity by the Air Force in 1967. Of the total manufacturing revenue ($4.3 billion) by defense facilities, $0.6 billion was produced by Air Force. Also, the report does not include activities of Defense Department installations which serve primarily or exclusively their own installations (e.g., bakeries and some machine shops). All printing and publishing activities are excluded because almost every large government installation engages in these activities to some degree, thus making coverage difficult.

In tables 1A and 1B, statistics are shown for employment, man-hours, payrolls, costs, and billings. Military personnel are not included in any of the employment, payroll, or man-hours data. The data represent only nonmilitary (wage board and graded) employees engaged in manufacturing activities at the plant. The cost and billings data for 1967 are based on the Industrial Fund accounting system of the Department of Defense. The Industrial Fund concepts of "Total Billings" and "Total Earned Revenue," which were used for the 1967 data, differ because the latter is the result of increasing or decreasing "Total Billings" to reflect the change in unbilled costs of work in progress.

The 1967 value added by manufacture data, shown in table 1A, represent total earned revenue (including the value of manufacturing services) less the cost of materials, parts, and supplies actually consumed or put into production during the year.

PRISON INDUSTRIES (FEDERAL, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, AND STATE)

During 1967, manufactured products valued at $140.5 million were produced in Federal, District of Columbia, and State prisons in the United States. The comparable 1963 figure of $112.7 million also includes the value of products produced for use within the institutions as well as for products transferred to other governmental agencies or for sale in the open market. These data, shown in detail in tables 2 and 3, cover the activities of the Federal Prison Industries, Inc., as well as those of the prison industries of each State and the District of Columbia.

MANUFACTURING FACILITIES OWNED AND OPERATED BY OTHER
U.S. GOVERNMENT AGENCIES

Manufacturing operations of the Bureau of Mines, U.S. Department of Interior, are not included in the tables of this report. That agency is the primary producer of refined helium in the United States. During 1963, it operated five plants from which 752 million cubic feet of helium valued at $26.3 million were shipped. The average number of employees totaled 333 of which 266 were production and related workers, and the total wages and salaries paid amounted to $2.5 million. Comparable figures for other years as well as additional detail for production, shipments, consumption, prices, reserves, and activities relating to conservation and technology appear in the Minerals Yearbook, a publication of the Bureau of Mines.

Excluded from this report are the manufacturing activities of the Government Printing Office, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and the Tennessee Valley Authority. The operations of these agencies are covered in their annual reports. Also excluded are the minor manufacturing activities of such other government agencies as the Post Office Department and the General Services Administration.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS

Employment and Payrolls.—The census of manufactures provides information on employment and payrolls at operating establishments and central administrative offices and auxiliaries. On the standard forms for manufacturing establishments, the number of production workers by quarter and all other employees during the pay period including March 12 was requested. Form NC-X6, "Central Administrative Offices and Auxiliaries" called for employment as of March 12 only. Both forms called for salaries and wages paid for the year.

All Employees.—This category comprises all full-time and part-time employees who worked or received pay for any part of the pay periods including the 12th of the months specified on the report forms. Included are all persons on paid sick leave, paid holidays, and paid vacations during these pay periods. Excluded are members of the Armed Forces and pensioners carried on the active rolls but not working during the period. Officers of corporations are included as employees; proprietors and partners of unincorporated firms, however, are excluded.

In special cases, respondents were instructed to exclude agricultural or fishery employment and related data from their reports. These were sugar mills operated as part of plantations, canning or freezing plants operated in conjunction with farms, and fish processing plants engaged in fishing.

Production and Related Workers.—This category comprises workers (up through the working foreman level) engaged in fabricating, processing, assembling, inspection, receiving, storage, handling, packing, warehousing, shipping (but not delivering), maintenance, repair, janitorial, watchman services, product development, auxiliary production for plant's own use (for example, power plant), recordkeeping, and other services closely associated with these production operations at the establishment covered by the report. Supervisory employees above the working foreman level were excluded from this category.

All Other Employees.—These are defined as nonproduction personnel, including employees engaged in the following activities: Factory supervision above the working foreman level, sales (including driver-salesmen), sales delivery (highway truck drivers and their helpers), advertising, credit, collection, installation and servicing of own products, clerical and routine office functions, executive, purchasing, financing, legal, personnel (including cafeteria, medical, etc.), professional, and technical. Also included are employees on the payroll engaged in the construction of major additions or alterations to the plant and utilized as a separate work force.

Average Employment.—The number of production workers as shown in the census tabulations is an average of the four quarterly figures reported by manufacturing plants. The "all employees" figure is the sum of this average and the reported number of other employees as of March 12.

Payrolls.—This category includes the gross annual earnings of employees on the payroll. Respondents were told they could follow the definition of payrolls used for calculating the Federal withholding tax. This definition includes all forms of compensation such as salaries, wages, commissions, dismissal pay, bonuses, vacation and sick leave pay, and compensation in kind, prior to such deductions as employees' Social Security contributions, withholding taxes, group insurance, union dues, and saving bonds. The total includes salaries of officers of these establishments, if a corporation; it excludes payments to the proprietor or partners, if an unincorporated concern. Also excluded are payments to members of Armed Forces and pensioners carried on the active payroll.

The 1967 census definition of payrolls is identical to that recommended to all Federal statistical agencies by the Bureau of the Budget. This definition does not include supplementary labor costs such as employer's Social Security contributions and other legally required expenditures, or payments for voluntary programs. Data on such supplementary labor costs were collected in the ASM and are scheduled for publication in the ASM reports, but are not included in the census volumes.

Man-Hours.—This total consists of all plant man-hours of production and related workers as defined above. It represents all man-hours at the plant including actual overtime hours, not straight-time equivalent hours. It excludes hours paid for vacations, holidays, or sick leave, when the employee was not actually at the plant. Where employees elected to work during the vacation period, the actual hours worked by such employees were reported.

Cost of Materials, etc., Consumed.—A summary inquiry on form MA-100 and the other manufacturing establishment report forms requested information on the cost of materials, supplies, semifinished goods, fuels, and electric energy actually consumed or put into production during the year and the cost of products purchased for resale, whether purchased, withdrawn from inventories, or received from other establishments of the company. Included also are the costs of materials supplied by the establishment which were processed elsewhere on contract for the establishment. "Cost" was defined as the direct charges actually paid or payable for items consumed or put into production during the year, after discounts, and including freight charges and other direct charges incurred by the establishment in acquiring the materials.

To arrive at the industry total "cost of materials, etc."<sup>1</sup> separate figures were obtained for (a) the total delivered cost of all raw materials, semifinished goods, parts, components, containers, scrap, and supplies consumed or put into production, (b) the amount paid for electric energy purchased; (c) the amount paid for all fuels consumed for heat, power, or the generation of electricity; (d) the cost of work done by others on materials or parts furnished by the reporting establishment (contract work); and (e) the cost of products bought and resold in the same condition.

It should be noted that the cost of fuel consumed under "(c)" above does not include fuel used as a material in the manufacturing process; for example, coal used in the production of coke. Such costs are included with other materials cost in category "(a)" above.

The total excludes the cost of services used, such as advertising, insurance, telephone, etc., and developmental, research, and consulting services of other establishments. It also excludes overhead costs, such as depreciation charges, rent, interest, royalties, etc., and materials, machinery, and equipment used in plant expansion or capitalized repairs which are chargeable to fixed assets accounts.

For materials received from other plants of the same company or from a central materials depot (whether at the same or different physical location), respondents were asked to value the items at their full economic value as produced, plus freight and other direct handling charges. The respondents were asked to check, where possible, that the cost equaled the value of shipments reported for the items by the company's plant which produced and transferred the goods, plus freight and other direct charges.

Value of Shipments.—Except in a few industries, the respondents were instructed to report net selling values, f.o.b. plant, after discounts and allowances and excluding freight charges and excise taxes. For a few industries, specifically noted in the text of the industry chapters, Volume II, delivered prices were requested if delivery by employees of the establishment was a routine practice, as in the milk and bakery industries.

For most industries, value of shipments is readily available from accounting records and is closely related to the value of production. In a small group of industries, however, value of production or of work done was requested. This instruction was of particular importance in the aircraft and shipbuilding industries, where the shipments or deliveries of complete units may be a poor approximation of the work actually done during a given year.

Manufacturers were asked to include as products shipped, not only the products made in the establishment but also those made elsewhere under contract from the materials owned by the establishment. Included were all products sold, transferred to other parts of the same company, or shipped on consignment. The duplication in value of shipments and cost of materials arising because of the shipment of semifinished products among manufacturing plants is discussed in Part III of the Introduction, which also includes comments on the valuation of intra-company shipments by multiunit firms.

Miscellaneous Receipts.—In addition, manufacturers reported receipts for contract work performed for others, resales (that is, the value of all products resold without further processing), receipts for miscellaneous activities such as sale of scrap and refuse, and the value of installation and repair work performed by the plant employees. Although the value of products bought and resold without further processing is included in the value of shipments totals for each industry, it is excluded from the figures for individual products or classes of products.

Value Added by Manufacture.—This figure is derived by subtracting the total cost of materials (including materials, supplies, fuel, electric energy, cost of resales and contract work done by others) from the value of shipments including resales, and other receipts and adjusting the resulting amount by the net change in finished products and work-in-process inventories between the beginning and end of the year.<sup>2</sup>

Value added avoids the duplication in the value of shipments figure which results from the inclusion of the shipments of establishments producing materials and components along with the shipments of establishments producing finished products. It is considered to be the best value measure available for comparing the relative economic importance of manufacturing among industries and geographic areas.

Inventories.—The value of beginning-of-year and end-of-year inventories held by each manufacturing establishment was obtained in the 1967 census. Separate inventory figures were requested for (1) finished products; (2) work in process; and (3) materials, supplies, fuel, and other inventories.

Respondents were asked to report their inventories at approximate current costs if feasible; otherwise, at book value. Since different methods of inventory valuation are used (LIFO, FIFO, etc.), the value of inventories aggregated for all establishments in an industry is not precisely defined. The importance of reporting inventories on a comparable basis was emphasized in the instructions; thus the year-to-year change in inventories indicated by the census figures is of more significance than their level.

In using inventory data by stage of fabrication for all industries and at the 2-digit industry level, it should be noted that an item treated as a finished product by one establishment may be reported as a material by another establishment. For example, the finished product inventories of a steel mill would be reported as materials by a stamping plant. Such differences are present in the inventory figures by stage of fabrication for individual industries, industry groups, and all manufacturing, since these figures are merely aggregates of the figures reported by establishments.

Multiunit companies were instructed to include the inventories held by each establishment in that establishment's report. The inventory data tabulated on a geographic basis are believed, therefore, to reflect the actual physical holdings in each area, to the extent that the inventories were owned by the reporting companies. It is not clear where goods owned by one company and stored by another were reported.

<sup>2</sup>For a few industries (for example, aircraft, shipbuilding) where value of work done is substituted for value of shipments, no adjustment is made for change in inventories. In a few other industries where value of production is collected, the inventory adjustment is made only on the basis of change in work-in-process inventories.

Special instructions on inventories were issued for two industries in the food group. Meatpacking establishments were told to report work in process separately only if separate records were maintained, otherwise to combine work in process with finished products. Distillers were instructed to include stocks of liquors held for aging as finished products, not as work in process.

Capital Expenditures.—Under this heading, manufacturers were instructed to report expenditures of the type chargeable to fixed assets accounts, for which depreciation reserves are normally maintained. Actual capital outlays during the year were requested, not the final value of equipment put in place or structures completed during the year. It was suggested to the respondents that capital expenditures, as thus defined, could be computed by the following formula: The cost of additions completed during the year, plus construction in progress at the end of the year, less construction in progress at the beginning of the year. It was specified that the census definition of capital expenditures was to be used in computing the gross value of fixed assets discussed below.

Capital expenditures include the cost of plant and equipment for replacement purposes, as well as for additions to productive capacity. Costs associated with plants under construction but not in operation during the year are also included. The method of collecting data for plants under construction is described in the Introduction, Section 7, "Reporting Forms." Capital expenditures do not include plant and equipment furnished to the manufacturer without charge by governmental or private organizations. The value of rented facilities is also excluded.

New Structures and Additions to Plant.—This category includes all construction and other land improvements, whether built on contract or by the manufacturer's own labor force. Included are major alterations; capitalized repairs; new elevators, cranes, heating and air-conditioning equipment essentially a part of buildings; fixed structures such as blast furnaces, brick kilns, fractionating towers, and shipways; and land improvements such as roads, fences, parking lots, and railroad spurs.

New Machinery and New Equipment.—This category includes production and all other machinery and equipment. Included are motors, lathes, presses, looms, and other production machinery; office machines and fixtures; furniture; automobiles, trucks, and handling equipment. Major repairs or improvement to existing equipment are included if the cost is capitalized, as well as equipment manufactured by the plant for use in its own production.

Used Plant and Equipment.—This category represents expenditures for old or existing plants and for secondhand equipment acquired from others. Transfers of used equipment between plants of multiunit companies are included. The companies were instructed to report such transfers at their current value rather than original cost. The Census Bureau estimates of capital expenditures as compared to those published in the joint Office of Business Economics-Securities and Exchange Commission survey are discussed in the Introduction.

Fuels and Electric Energy.—Separate data were collected in the census for coal, coke, fuel oil, gas, and other fuels used for heat and power; purchased electric energy, electric energy generated by manufacturing establishments; and energy generated less the amount sold. Fuels used as a raw material (as coal in the production of coke) are included in the cost of materials rather than in the fuel category.

Assets and Rents.—Data on the gross value of fixed assets owned and rental payments for leased fixed assets were collected in the ASM. These figures are scheduled for publication in the ASM series, but are not included in the census volumes.<sup>3</sup>

<sup>3</sup>Earlier reports on these topics include chapter 9 of Volume I, Summary Statistics, in the 1958 census, and chapter 7 of the ASM Volume for 1964-65.

The "regular" factories perform all of the usual manufacturing functions on materials owned by themselves within their own plants, the contract factories manufacture apparel on a contract or commission basis from materials supplied to them by others, and apparel jobbers perform only entrepreneurial functions of a manufacturing establishment such as the purchase of raw materials for their own account, the design and preparation of samples, arrangement with outside factories (contractors) for the manufacture of garments from materials supplied by such jobbers, and the sale of finished apparel.

Custom tailors and dressmakers not operating on a factory basis are classified in nonmanufacturing industries. Establishments which primarily purchase and resell finished garments but do not perform the functions of apparel jobbers or manufacturers are classified in the wholesale trades.

Appendix C

COMPOSITION OF INDUSTRIES IN THE 1967 STANDARD INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION

The censuses of manufactures for 1967 and 1963 covered all establishments engaged in manufacture as defined, respectively, in the Standard Industrial Classification Manual (SIC), 1967 edition, and 1957 edition, as amended, issued by the Bureau of the Budget. The 1967 edition contained minor revisions in the SIC Manual for the manufacturing industries additional to those issued between 1957 and 1963.

Most of the manufacturing industries as defined in 1963 remained, without change, for 1967. In view of the minor nature of the revision, this appendix cites only those industries affected by a revision between 1963 and 1967. Presented in two parts, this appendix lists, in part 1, the industries as defined for 1967 in terms of their 1963 equivalents and, in part 2, the industries of 1963 in terms of their 1967 equivalents. No data for either year are presented. Comparability between the two census years is such that data from one year may be readily compared to data in the other year by making the industry combinations shown below. Titles of industries for either year are as published in the respective Census volumes for 1967 and 1963.

INSTRUCTIONS

This form will provide you and the Bureau of the Census with a systematic means for assuring that ALL DOMESTIC ACTIVITIES of your company and its subsidiaries have been accounted for in the 1967 Censuses of Business, Manufactures, and Mineral Industries. For the purposes of this report, "domestic" activities should include all 50 States and the District of Columbia. It should not include activities of your firm in foreign countries. (Note - Your Puerto Rico activities, if any, will be covered separately in the 1967 Census of Puerto Rico conducted jointly by the Commonwealth government and the U.S. Bureau of the Census.)

Please complete Form NC-K1, "Company Summary Report," after you have prepared all required 1967 Census establishment reports for your company and its subsidiaries, but before you return these completed reports to the Bureau of the Census. Preparing this Company Summary Report prior to returning the completed establishment reports may help you to discover more readily and to correct promptly any omission or duplication of reports for those establishments which should be covered in the 1967 Censuses of Business, Manufactures and Mineral Industries. In turn, this will speed up the Census Bureau's processing of your company report forms and will minimize any correspondence regarding coverage.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

(See also specific instructions with Product Group Reference List)

As part of the 1967 Census of Manufactures, the Census Bureau is conducting this survey of the Distribution of Manufacturers' Sales by Class of Customer. The last such survey was conducted as part of the 1958 Census of Manufactures. This survey will provide a current analysis of the marketing channels through which the goods move from the manufacturer to the user or consumer. The results are needed for the improvement of the national income and product statistics.

Estimates are acceptable - We appreciate that there is no uniform system of sales analysis and that completeness of records varies considerably among companies. Therefore, some companies will have to use estimates to a far greater extent than they do on other Census surveys. If actual records are not available except at considerable expense, or if your class of customer or product groupings differ significantly from those requested, approximations will be acceptable.

What to report - You are requested to provide a summary company level report on the shipments of groups of products from your company's manufacturing plants, and sales branches and offices. This report should include data for all domestic subsidiaries, divisions, and establishments as reported on Form NC-K1, "Company Summary Form." You are requested in section 1 to allocate the shipments from your manufacturing plants, including movements within the company, according to type of customer; and in section 2 to further trace the shipments which move from or on order from company operated sales branches, sales offices, and administrative offices.

Product groups - (See accompanying Reference Manual PCL-(NC-K4M).) Report groups of the products for which you report shipments from manufacturing establishments in item 9, Form MA-100. However, the products have been grouped into a smaller number of categories for this report. The Reference Manual lists the product categories for which class of customer information is to be reported and describes the products, as reported on Form MA-100, which are to be summarized into the groups.

At the head of each column, enter the product code and description from the manual. In distributing your sales by class of customer, include products bought and resold in the same condition (resales) in their appropriate product group. Exclude, however, miscellaneous receipts and receipts for contract and commission work. In both sections 1 and 2, please estimate the percent of each product group which is resales, lines 15 and 28.

Allocation of sales and shipments - Special instructions on reporting sales for a few particular products are included in the instructions. Unless there are such special instructions, use the following standards in completing this report.

Section 1 - Allocate the shipments from your manufacturing plants to the classes of customers described. In section 1A, list those customers which represent within company shipments, i.e., to other plants of the company for further processing or to the company's own wholesale or retail outlets. For purposes of section 1A, your sales branches and sales offices, if any, are considered as customers. If you report sales on line 1 (shipments to or on order from sales branches, sales offices or administrative offices), you must also report in section 2. Products should be valued f.o.b. plant as reported on Form MA-100.

Section 2 - Products sold from sales branches, sales offices, and administrative offices should be valued at sales price to the customer.

DESCRIPTION OF CLASS OF CUSTOMER

(Corresponds to report form line number)

Section 1A - SHIPMENTS, SALES OR TRANSFERS TO OTHER ESTABLISHMENTS OF THIS COMPANY

1. Sales branches, sales offices, administrative offices - Include shipments to or on orders received through those establishments of your company which report on Form CB-51A-51L, Census of Business, "Manufacturers' Sales Branches and Offices." These are establishments operated by the company primarily to sell the products manufactured by the company, although they may also sell products made by other companies. (These are distinguished from merchant wholesale establishments of the company, SEE line 2.) Also, for purposes of this inquiry consider as a sales office any administrative office which handles sales of the company. These establishments report on Form NC-X6, "Central Administrative Offices and Auxiliaries."

Include as shipments to sales branches, sales offices and administrative offices not only the value of products actually shipped from the plant to these establishments, but also products shipped from the plant to customers on order from the sales branch or office. If any sales are reported on line 1, section 1, sales from sales branches and sales offices, you must also complete section 2.

2. Merchant wholesale establishments - Report shipments to or orders from any establishment operated by this company for which you report in the 1967 Census of Business on Form CB-50A-50R.

3. Retail stores or outlets - Report sales through separately operated retail stores for which a report is also required in the Census of Business.

4. Other manufacturing plants - Report all transfers or shipments from one manufacturing plant of this company to another whether for further processing, for use as a material or supply, or for resales by the other plants.

5. Other establishments - Report all transfers or shipments to other plants of this company, such as mining, transportation, service, etc.

Section 1B - SHIPMENTS TO OTHER COMPANIES, INDIVIDUALS, GOVERNMENTS, AND EXPORT

6. Wholesalers - Include all wholesale companies purchasing primarily for resale to other businesses or to institutions and not directly to household consumers or farmers.

7. Retailers - (Do not include shipments to your company's own retail outlets.) Include sales to businesses which sell merchandise for personal, household, or farm consumption. Include all chain stores, mail order houses, department stores, independent retailers, including independent route salesmen such as bakery or dairy truck distributors who sell directly to households.

8. Manufacturers - Report sales to companies known to be engaged in manufacturing. Include as manufacturers food processors such as meat packers, bakeries, and bottling plants; sheet metal operations; feed mixers; logging camps; sawmills; printing; publishing; apparel jobbers; machine shops.

9. Commercial and industrial users, construction, State and local governments, private and public institutions - Include all private firms and businesses not considered manufacturers, retailers, or wholesalers. Thus, include companies engaged in construction, mining, transportation; as well as utilities, restaurants, hotels, and other businesses providing services; include hospitals and schools, as well as State and local governments. (Report sales to the Federal Government separately.) Lines 9b (and 22b) are used only for product groups for which special instructions appear in the Product Group Reference List.

10. Individuals, household users, and farmers - Include all direct sales from the manufacturing plants to households, farmers, and individual users (including sales to your company's own employees at retail, even if at a discount). Companies which deliver products to customers should include route sales to households in this item (sales to stores, institutions, and restaurants). State and local governments should be reported in the appropriate category.

11. Federal Government - Include all sales to branches of the Federal government and to corporations owned by the Federal Government; include sales to military post exchanges, ship's stores and similar units.

If you operate manufacturing plants reporting on Census Form MA-175, "Report on Shipments to or Receipts for Work Done for Federal Government Agencies and Their Contractors and Suppliers," report as sales to government only those shipments made directly to the government. Indirect sales under subcontractor should be reported as shipments in the class of customer to which the prime contractor is classified, usually other manufacturing companies.

12. Export - Report sales for direct export, including shipments to your company's foreign subsidiaries and affiliates. Do NOT include shipments to domestic exporters which should be reported as sales to wholesalers.

13. Other - Report sales for all customers not listed in lines 6-12 (and 19-25).

14. Total shipments from manufacturing establishments - The sum of lines 1-13 should approximate the sum of product class shipments comprising the group reported in item 9, Form MA-100, of establishment reports with allowance for resales.

16. Total for product group reported in item 9 of Form MA-100 should equal the sum of product class shipments comprising the product group reported in item 9, Form MA-100.

Section 2 - SALES BY SALES BRANCHES, SALES OFFICES, AND ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICES - Lines 17-26 - Class of customer definitions are the same as for section 1B.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

As part of the 1967 Census of Manufactures, the Bureau of the Census is conducting this survey of the Distribution of Manufacturers' Sales by Class of Customer. This survey will provide a current analysis of the institutions through which the Nation's goods move from the manufacturer to the customer. The results are needed for the improvement of the national income and product statistics. The latest broad-scale survey of the distribution of sales covered 1958.

One Form (NC-K45) should be completed by each company operating only one place of business during 1967. If you operate more than one separate place of business, please let us know and we will send you the correct form.

This report covering all of the domestic activities of the company will measure the flow of products from this company to its customers. Please report in column (B) the value of all of your products (whether made in your company or purchased and resold without further fabrication) shipped to each of the class of customer categories listed in column (A). Report shipments on consignment as though the merchandise had been sold at the time of the shipment. If such consignment shipments are to agents, consider the agent as a wholesaler.

Estimates are acceptable - We appreciate that there is no uniform system of sales analysis for all manufacturing companies and that reporting on this form will require some companies to resort to the use of estimates to a greater extent than is usually necessary for Census report forms. If you do not have records showing your sales by class of customer or if your sales analysis by customer class differs for some of the classes shown on this form, approximate figures will be acceptable. It is hoped that you can provide estimates that do not miss the actual figure by 2 or 3 percent of the total value of sales for the product group.

Form NC-K45 - should equal - 1967 Form MA-100

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

A separate Census report is required for each manufacturing establishment; therefore, based on Census records, a report form is provided for each establishment which your company operated in 1967.

For purposes of the Census, a manufacturing establishment is defined as a single physical location where manufacturing operations are performed (e.g., a factory, mill, or plant). Thus a separate report is required for different physical locations even though the establishments may be engaged in the same line of manufacturing.

Please note that establishments engaged in the following activities are also considered to be manufacturing for the purposes of this Census: Poultry dressing; milk pasteurizing and bottling; seafood, fresh packaged or frozen; apparel jobbing and contracting; logging camps and logging; sawmills; printing; publishing—book, magazine, periodical, etc.; manufacturing and delivering ready-mixed concrete; machine shops, including those operating on a job order basis; job casting, stamping, machining; plating, galvanizing, polishing materials owned by others, etc.; ship and boat repairing.

In completing this report, a limited amount of prorating or estimating is acceptable if book records are not readily available. Include all the activities conducted within the establishment: e.g., manufacturing, fabricating, processing, and assembling; maintenance of plant and equipment; receiving, shipping, warehousing, storage; research; record keeping; health, safety, cafeteria, and other services.

Each report should cover the calendar year 1967. However, a report is required even if the establishment operated only part of the year. If your book records are not on a calendar year basis, carefully prepared estimates will be acceptable. If reporting on a calendar year basis will require considerable additional costs, and your fiscal year covers at least 10 months of the calendar year 1967 (i.e., ends between October 31, 1967 and February 29, 1968), you may report on a fiscal year basis. However, all employment, payroll, and man-hour figures should relate to the calendar year rather than the fiscal year. (Calendar year payroll records should be available from your tax records.)

In the certification, enter the exact dates of the period covered by the report. If the ownership changed during the year, complete the report only for that part of 1967 in which your company owned and operated the establishment. Report in item 13 the appropriate information on changes in ownership or operations.

If additional report forms are needed, write to the Jeffersonville Census Operations Office. Be sure to describe the type of activity of the establishments for which the additional report forms are requested.

CONTINUATION OF INSTRUCTIONS FOR ITEMS 2, 3, 4, 5, and 7

(Definitions of employees and payrolls used to calculate withholding taxes generally may be followed in completing items 2 and 3A, Employment and Payrolls.)

Item 2. Number of Employees—Be sure to include all persons on paid sick leave, paid holidays, and paid vacation during the pay periods, as well as those actually working. Exclude members of armed forces and pensioners carried on your active rolls. Include officers at this establishment if a corporation; if an unincorporated concern, exclude proprietors or partners.

Item 3A. Payrolls—Report the gross earnings paid in the calendar year 1967 to employees on the payroll at the establishment prior to such deductions as employee's Social Security contributions, withholding taxes, group insurance premiums, union dues, and savings bonds. Include in gross earnings, commissions, dismissal pay, paid bonuses, vacation and sick-leave pay, and the cash equivalent of compensation paid in kind. Include salaries of officers at this establishment if a corporation; if an unincorporated concern, exclude payments to proprietors or partners. Exclude payments to agricultural employees, fishermen, members of armed forces, and pensioners carried on your active payroll.

Item 4. Plant Man-hours of Production Workers—If an employee elects to work during vacation periods, report only actual hours worked.

Item 5. Cost of Materials, Fuels, Electricity, and Contract Work—If actual consumption records are not available, cost of purchases may be used if these do not differ significantly from the amounts actually used. The consumption of any major item which differs significantly from purchases should be estimated by adding beginning inventories to the amounts purchased and subtracting from this total the cost of goods on hand at the end of the year.

Item 5a. Cost of Materials, Parts, Components, Containers, Supplies, etc., Consumed—Report the delivered cost of all raw materials, containers, scrap, and supplies, etc., which were: (1) put into production; (2) used as operating supplies; (3) used in repair and maintenance. Include also cost of materials owned by this establishment but consumed by other companies to make products for this establishment under contract. (The value of these products should be reported in item 18.) Amounts paid to other companies for such contract work should be reported on line 5e and should include freight out and in. If semi-finished goods, parts, or components were produced and incorporated into finished products at this plant during 1967, include the cost of raw materials used rather than the value of the intermediate products.

Include only value of physical goods used or put into production. Exclude cost of such services as advertising, telephone, telegram and cable, insurance; developmental, research, or engineering; management, marketing, and other professional consultants, etc., unless charges for such services are included in the prices paid for materials. Exclude also such overhead items as depreciation charges against plant and equipment; rent and rental allowances, interest payments, royalties, and patent fees. Exclude materials, supplies, machinery, and equipment which were used in the construction of new structures or additions to your plant, or new machinery and equipment, and which were chargeable to fixed assets accounts. Exclude products purchased and resold without further manufacturing, processing or assembling; their costs should be included in item 5b.

Item 5b. Cost of Goods Sold Without Further Manufacturing, Processing, or Assembling in this Establishment—Include all products bought and resold in the same condition as when purchased and not made part of another product manufactured by this establishment. (Total sales value of all products resold is to be reported in item 18 on the line for "Resales.")

Item 5c. Fuels Consumed—Report cost of all fuels (including gasoline) consumed for heat, power, transportation, and the generation of electricity.

Item 5e. Cost of Contract Work Done for You by Others on Your Materials—Report the total payments made during 1967 for any work done by others on materials furnished by your establishment, including freight out and in on the materials furnished by you.

Item 7. Capital Expenditures for this Establishment (Exclude expenditures for land)—Capital expenditures during 1967 may be determined by the following computation: The cost of additions completed during the year, plus construction in progress at the end of the year, minus construction in progress at the beginning of the year.

Item 7a. New Structures and Additions to Plant—Report total expenditures during 1967 for new construction (whether constructed on contract or by your own forces), major alterations, capitalized repairs, and improvement of buildings, including all new elevators, cranes, heating and ventilating equipment, essentially a part of the buildings. Also, other fixed structures (such as brick kilns, shipways, and similar types of structures), and site improvements (such as roads, docks, tracks, parking lots, fences, utilities).

Item 7b. New Machinery and New Equipment—Report total expenditures at this establishment for new production machinery and equipment and other new machinery and equipment. Include replacements, as well as additions to capacity. Include the value of capitalized improvements and repairs to machinery and machinery produced and used at this establishment. Include all new motors, lathes, punch presses and similar machinery and equipment for use in production, as well as all new office machines and fixtures, furniture, cafeteria and dressing room furnishings, automobiles and trucks, and other similar equipment.

Item 7c. Used Plant and Used Equipment Acquired from Others—Report total expenditures at this establishment for old or existing plants and for second-hand equipment acquired from others, including the U.S. Government. Include at approximate market value machinery or equipment transferred from other plants of your company.

EXPENDITURES FOR PLANT AND EQUIPMENT DURING 1967 FOR MANUFACTURING ESTABLISHMENTS UNDER CONSTRUCTION

ANNUAL SURVEY OF MANUFACTURES
(1967 CENSUS OF MANUFACTURES)

INSTRUCTIONS

The information reported on this form should be for manufacturing establishments under construction or renovation and not in operation during the calendar year 1967. Expenditures for any plant in operation (those which had employees, inventories, or made shipments) during the calendar year should be reported on the Annual Survey of Manufactures form(s) MA-100, and they should not be duplicated in this report. The sum of the figures shown in column (b) of item 2 of this report and in item 7 of form(s) MA-100 should account for all capital expenditures (exclusive of those for land) made by this company and its subsidiaries and affiliates during the calendar year 1967 for manufacturing facilities in the United States.

Report expenditures by this company, its subsidiaries, and affiliates during the year, for construction and equipping new manufacturing establishments, or for renovating existing manufacturing establishments, that were not actually in operation during the year.

Expenditures refer to all costs actually incurred during the calendar year 1967, which are chargeable to fixed assets accounts, and are of the type for which depreciation accounts are ordinarily maintained. These expenditures cover the acquisition, construction, and major alteration of buildings, and other fixed plants and structures (whether on contract or by your own forces) and the acquisition of machinery and equipment. Expenditures are equal to construction and other additions to fixed assets completed during 1967, plus construction-in-progress at the end of 1967, minus construction-in-progress at the beginning of 1967.

Do not include any expenditures on these projects actually made prior to or after the calendar year. For example, if construction of a new plant is begun before and is completed after 1967, only those costs chargeable to fixed assets accounts which were actually incurred during the calendar year should be reported. If your records do not show the exact information needed, please make careful estimates.

Column (a) - Principal products to be made or activities to be conducted at this establishment - Describe briefly the kind of business that will be conducted at the establishment. List the principal types of products that will be produced.

Column (b) - New plants and structures - Report total expenditures during the calendar year for new construction and major alterations of buildings, including all new elevators, cranes, heating and ventilation equipment, essentially a part of the buildings; other fixed structures (such as blast furnaces, brick kilns, fractionating towers, shipways, and similar types of structures); and site improvements (such as roads, docks, tracks, parking lots, fences, utilities, etc.). Exclude expenditures for land.

New machinery and equipment - Report total expenditures during the calendar year for machinery and equipment acquired in new condition for use in production, and other purposes in plants under construction or renovation. Examples are motors, lathes, punch presses, automobiles, trucks, office machinery and equipment, furniture, cafeteria facilities, etc.

Used plant and used equipment - Report total expenditures during the calendar year for acquisition of old or existing plant and second-hand equipment from others, including the U.S. Government, for use in establishments under construction.

If you have any questions regarding form MA-101, please communicate with the Jeffersonville Census Operations Office, Jeffersonville, Indiana 47130. Please complete this report and return by April 30, 1968, in the enclosed envelope, which requires no postage. Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Please complete and return this form in the envelope provided.

A separate report is required on this form for each sales branch and sales office operated during 1967. Each sales office without stock should be reported separately as well as each sales branch carrying stocks of merchandise from which deliveries are made to customers. Sales branches and sales offices located at plants or administrative offices should be reported on this form where separate records are available, or if substantially accurate reports can be prepared. Employment, payroll, inventories, and operating expenses reported here should not be included in manufacturer's plant reports (MC series). Sales, however, will to some extent duplicate shipments on your plant reports.

This report should cover only the establishment identified in the address block.

This report should cover the calendar year 1967 or, if records are maintained on a fiscal year basis, the report should cover the fiscal year which includes at least 10 months of 1967.

If book figures are not available, enter your best estimates.

If unusual circumstances should cause an undue burden in filing by the due date, or if you have any questions, please write to the Jeffersonville Census Operations Office, Jeffersonville, Indiana 47130.
